

Loss and death

Each and every person account loss and death in a different way whereby we grief differently and is something that you can't fix it stays with you live with it. I also learned different stages of grief and how people react different towards those stages. I found very profound as a nurse to have such knowledge that will help us to know how to deal with kind of situation in hospital as we care for patient together with the families even after loss and death.